

Contents (shortened)

Vol. 25 (2002) 1+2

double issue

The early ethnomedical discourse in curare

Selected articles and papers from the first 12 years of the periodical curare, founded in 1978, dedicated to Joachim Sterly (1926-2001), the founder of the Working Group Ethnomedizin.

Contents

- EKKEHARD SCHRÖDER: 25 years periodical curare in the interdisciplinary field of research of medical anthropology. Editorial with supplements . . . 6
- Part I: "Ethnomedizin". Contributions to a dialogue between the art of healing and ethnology from medical ethnography, ethnology, ethnobotany, folklore, psychology, psychiatry and obstetrics . . . . . 17
- GERHARD HELLER: The culture-specific organization of bodily disorders amongst the Tamang from Cautara/Nepal. An empirical enquiry into the background of cultural barriers between patients and doctors . . . . . 18
- Summary of RUDOLF SCHENDA's "Patient's behaviour at the intersection of professionalized and naive health-care service. Historical development and current difficulties" . . . . . 29
- RUDOLF SCHENDA: Urban vs. rural medicine. An attempt at explaining subcultural medical behaviour. 15 propositions . . . . . 32
- ERNST E. BOESCH: The escape into the prescription sheet. How doctors leave the family outside . . 33
- PAUL HINDERLING: Is the "medicine-man" a divinator, an exorcist, a healer, a witch-doctor, a herbalist, a cult leader, an oracle medium, a shaman, a seer, a fortune-teller, or a magician? . . . . . 39
- HORST H. FIGGE: On the phenomenology of so-called "changed" states of consciousness . . . . . 49
- DIETER H. FRIESSEM: Transcultural, comparative and ethno-psychiatry. Some considerations towards a classification. . . . . 57
- WERNER H. STÖCKLIN: The stomach-rod of the Bena-Bena . . . . . 65
- LISELOTTE KUNTNER: Notes on the delivery and female birth position, with supplement . . . . . 67
- ALFRED DIECK: Cabbage and wine, a home remedy for alleviating birthing . . . . . 79
- GÜNTER CLAUSER: Wood-turned "nappy-protector" or "chamber pots"? . . . . . 81
- CLAUS DEIMEL: Plants between cultures. The Tarahumara and Mestiza of the Sierra Madre in north-east Mexico. Ethnobotanical comparisons . . . 87
- Ethnobotany and ethnopharmacology in the periodical curare. A documentation, compiled by EKKEHARD SCHRÖDER, including a documentation of ethnobotanical cover-pictures . . . . . 105
- Part II: Early contributions of the periodical curare to the discourse on culture-bound syndromes . . . . . 111
- WINFRIED EFFELSBERG: Krid, a culture-bound syndrome on the Kei Islands / Indonesia . . . . . 112

- MICHAEL EL FAKHARANI: Koro – a syndrome in the process of cultural change? Observations from the East-Indonesian island Flores . . . . . 117
- DOROTHEA SICH: Naeng: Encounter with a folk disorder in modern gynaecological consultations in Korea . . . . . 121
- BURTON G. BURTON-BRADLEY: The “Amok”-Syndrome in Papua and New Guinea . . . . . 129
- KATRIN GREIFELD: Susto: A culture-bound syndrome or an ethnological construction? . . . . . 135
- Part III: Public Health and Primary Health Care. Medical Tradition and Modern Western Medicine as “Ethnomedizinisches Arbeitsfeld”/ Interdisciplinary Field of Research of Medical Anthropology . . . . . 149
- PAUL U. UNSCHULD: Science, Medicine, and Marxism in 20th century China . . . . . 150
- *SJAAK VAN DER GEEST: Discussion: Integration or Fatal Embrace? The Uneasy Relationship between Indigenous and Western Medicine . . . . . 155
- EKKEHARD SCHRÖDER: Observations and reflections on the dialogue with representatives of traditional medicines and healing systems . . . . . 161
- AXEL KROEGER: Being ill in foreign cultures: Task, purpose and dilemma of the ethnological and the sociomedical approach of research . . . . . 165
- *HANS-JOCHEN DIESFELD and DOROTHEA SICH: The Role of “Ethnomedizin” in Health Planning in Developing Countries. Preliminary Considerations for a Concept . . . . . 173
- Part IV: Ethnomedizin, Medizinethnologie, Medical Anthropology . . . . . 179
- Cover photo curare 9,3+4 (1986): Viktor von Weis-zäcker (1886–1957), with a commentary by THOMAS HAUSCHILD . . . . . 179
- THOMAS HAUSCHILD: Are healing rituals the same thing as psychotherapies? Critique of an ethnomedical habit of thought, exemplified by the South-Italian healing ritual against the evil eye . . . . . 181
- HERMANN FALLER: Subjective theories of disease as objects of research in medical-lore and medical psychology . . . . . 193
- BERNHARD FLOSSDORF: Curare – Sounding the depths between medicine as the art of healing and the compulsion to kill . . . . . 209
- ARMIN PRINZ: Medical-anthropological considerations on the decrease in population amongst the Azande in Central Africa . . . . . 227
- BEATRIX PFLEIDERER: Charismatic signs – An example from North India of the problems in choosing a healing authority . . . . . 235
- LORENZ G. LÖFFLER: Population growth and systems of social security . . . . . 243
- Part V: Reports, comments, short communications, discussion . . . . . 261
- *THOMAS MARETZKI: Dilemmas of Ethnomedical Research. An Echo from Overseas . . . . . 263
- *Johanna Wagner: The “Call-It-Method”, another Concept of Ethnotherapy. Some Ideas on Charles Wooding’s Paper . . . . . 266
- *JOHANNA WAGNER: Dogmatism and Transcultural Activities . . . . . 269
- The editorial staff of curare invited to a discussion in 1987: Ethnomedicine today: Statements . . . . . 272-282
- WALTER ANDRITZKY: Ethnomedicine in a medical curriculum. Reflections after a workshop . . . . . 284
- MAGEM 23 / 2002: Mitteilungen der Arbeitsgemeinschaft Ethnomedizin/MAGEM Newsletter of the Working Group “Ethnomedizin” 289-298

* original contribution in English language